Letter Regarding Parenting Facilitation Services

Dear Client,

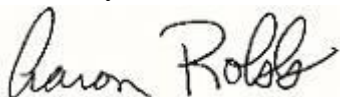

We have received the order for parenting facilitation involving your family. Beginning any new learning process can be a difficult decision and when done pursuant to a court order it is important that we begin with a clear understanding of the situation at hand. We have attached an Advisement Form regarding our services which details both our philosophy of services as well as the “nuts and bolts” of how services are offered. Also attached is a Data Form requesting basic demographic information about you and your family. Copies of these forms have been sent to your lawyer so that you may review them together if you desire.

Information about fees and the retainer for services is detailed on the enclosed Advisement Form. In an effort to maintain an impartial role during the process the retainer is due in advance of beginning services. We will schedule your first appointment, an individual session without your co-parent or others, together after we receive completed intake forms and initial retainers from all parties. A number of subsequent appointments will be scheduled during the course of services. These may be individual sessions with you, joint sessions with you and the other party, or, in rare situations, meetings with others as well. It is important in order to complete this process in a timely manner that you notify our office as soon as possible any time an appointment needs to be changed or rescheduled.

If for some reason you believe you may have interacted with one of us in the past, or that your Parenting Facilitator may have previously provided services or otherwise been involved with anyone in this case in another role please inform us of this immediately. We attempt to prevent even the appearance of any possible conflicts of interest, however our staff has been in practice, both privately and at various agencies, for cumulative decades and we cannot guarantee we remember every person we may have had contact with in that time. We may have been professionally involved in previous cases with one or more of the attorneys in this case, just as they may have been involved with each other in previous cases. If we are aware of any conflicts of interest that may impact on our ability to serve in a neutral role we will disclose those to you and to the court.

Again, please complete the attached forms and return them as soon as possible at the address listed above. Once we have received them and the initial retainer we will contact you to schedule your first interview. We look forward to meeting with your family in the near future. Thank you for your prompt cooperation in this matter. If you have any questions please contact us at the number above.

Sincerely,

Aaron Robb, Ph.D., Program Director
